

Income Thresholds For The Medical Expenses Subsidy Program To Support Single-Parent, etc. Households

Low-Income Earners Are Eligible For This Subsidy

“Low Income Earner” means that the total income received by the earner (including money from public pensions, etc.), and income received by any people financially supporting the earner (the mother, or the father, or the legal guardian), before city taxes, is less than 800,000 yen.

Please note: Sometimes 80% of all the money received by the earner for child support is included in the calculation of income. However, when we determine an earner to be a “low-income earner”, the income used to make that determination (before all tax deductions and allowances are applied according to Local Tax Laws) does not include this addition of 80% of all money received for Child Support.

If either [A] or [B] applies, you are eligible for a Medical Expenses Subsidy.

[A] Your income earned in the previous year is less than the TOTAL standard provisions (Table A) of the Child-Rearing Allowance

→Those not eligible for a “Low-income Earner” subsidy according to table B may be eligible for a “General Income Earner” Subsidy

(Table A) ※ Includes 80% of child support expenses

	Income of Mother, etc.	Income of Legal Guardian, Caretaker, etc.

4	1,710,000 円	3,880,000 円

【B】 Your income from the previous year makes you eligible for a “low-income earner”; however, the income is less than A PORTION of the standard provisions(Table B) → 「低所得」区分での助成になります。

「低所得者」かどうかの判定には養育費を所得に含めません。

(表 b) ※ 「低所得者」でも、所得に養育費の 80%を加えた額が下記限度額以上のときは対象外です。
